GEAC Considers Supporting New City Manager Daniel Hobbs Four Year Council Term Will Bring Fiscal Expertise to City

by Pat Scully

If the term for city councilmembers were four years instead of two, "maybe we'd get more work out of them," opined Dorothy Pyles at the May 2 GEAC meeting. With a two-year term, she said, "we never recover from one election before another one is here."

Pyles suggested that GEAC consider launching a petition drive to put a binding referendum on the city's 1991 ballot that would amend the city's charter to extend the council term to four years. Such a change would entice people to run, she said, by reducing the frequency and, thus, cost of campaigning.

A petition signed by 20 percent of the voters is required to have a referendum put on the ballot. While campaign reform has been talked about for years, Pyles said, the election is coming up and GEAC's member communities should decide now if they want to put the effort into making such a change.

Increased Expenses

The 1991 election will be the first under "universal registration," where voters do not have to register separately for the city election. City residents registered to vote in national and state elections will be able to vote in the city election. This change swells the number of voters from around 3,000 to around 8,000. The approximate geographical breakdown in voters is 2,600 in Greenbelt East, 2,100 in the center of town, 2,100 in the north end, and 1,000 in Springhill Lake.

James Foy, GEAC Chair, noted that the larger number of potential voters would substantially increase candidates' costs for printing and mailing of flyers and other campaign literature. Potential candidates may be deterred from running by having to pay that cost every two years, instead of every four, he suggested.

Nonbinding Referendum

Council member Edward Putens said that while the change has been discussed before and city council has the power to make the change, he "doesn't feel good about council voting themselves a longer term." A non-binding referendum will be on the city ballot, he announced. If passed by the voters, city council would perceive it as a mandate from the citizens and vote to lengthen the term of council members, beginning with the election of 1993.

Charlene MacAdams, noting the amount of work involved in a petition drive, said she would like to see the change made that way. Foy agreed but cautioned that if the referendum is to succeed, "we need to knock on doors and be involved."

In a motion to be taken back to the member boards for approval, the GEAC board formally proposed to city council that an advisory referendum appear on the November ballot to extend the city council term to four years, beginning with the council elected in the 1993 election.

State Bicyclists Seek Comprehensive Bike Plan

by Bill Clarke

The College Park Area Bicycle Coalition (CPABC) hosted a briefing by Bob Agee, undersecretary of the Maryland Department of Transportation (MDOT) on May 25, at the Greenbelt Denny's. Neil Pederson, director of planning for the State Highway Administration, and several local officials concerned with transportation policy attended the meeting.

Agee briefed the group about a planned Bicycle Transportation Overlay Project for the Greenbelt/College Park area. This project was requested by members of the 21st state legislative district which includes College Park, and by Senator Leo Green of the 23rd district which includes Greenbelt. Its purpose would be to identify existing bicycle resources and develop a comprehensive plan to ensure that adequate linkage and continuity exists between those resources.

Agee explained that the first step of the project would be a user survey to determine what routes local bicyclists are actually using. "We particularly want to learn from frequent riders and regular commuters who have scouted out the routes that work."

CPABC chairman Bill Kelly agreed to survey local cyclists.

Greenbelt resident Bill Clarke thanked Agee and Pederson for the bicycle friendly drainage grates on U.S. 1 and Md. 193. He presented a CPABC position paper that recommends further improvements to those routes. The CPABC recommends installing signs to remind motorists of their obligation to share the road with bicyclists and remind bicyclists to ride where it is safe and lawful to do so. The CPABC also recommends pavement restriping and widening where feasible.

The next CPABC task force meeting will be June 17 at 8 a.m. at the Beltsville Agricultural Research Library. Call Bill Kelly for information on 441-2740.

by Virginia Beauchamp

A former Marylander and current city manager of Killeen, Texas, will become Greenbelt's new city manager. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld made the announcement, formalized by a unanimous vote, at the regular city council meeting on Monday night, June 10. The man selected is Daniel G. Hobbs, who is considered especially expert in budget and financial affairs. Hobbs will begin his city service at an annual salary of $71,000 by July 15.

As Director of Management and Budget earlier for the city of Corpus Christi and then as city manager for Killeen, he brought distinction to both cities in their departments of fiscal management.

Previously he was deputy city manager of Rockville, Maryland. He loved Maryland, Weidenfeld said, and was delighted to return. Killeen, which is the site of Fort Hood, is currently in an economic decline, following the deployment of most of its military population in the Iraq conflict—doubtless another incentive for moving on.

According to a brief profile presented at the meeting, Hobbs holds a B.A. degree from the University of Dayton and two master's degrees from the University of Wisconsin—one in urban affairs and one in public administration. Council member Edward Putens characterized Hobbs as "representative of open government, fair government." Council member Joseph Isaacs added that Hobbs showed "tremendous sensitivity to the historic importance" of Greenbelt.

Search Process

Before making the announcement, Weidenfeld described in detail the national search process with which council has been occupied for the last six months—since the notification by longtime City Manager James K. Giese that he would be stepping down at the beginning of June. As Mayor Pro Tem Thomas X. White said, "We were all amateurs" at making such a selection. He was referring to Giese's 28-year tenure in the position, a period of very great stability for the city and for the council.

The first step, Weidenfeld said, following the decision "to find the very best that we could afford," was to ask the city staff to supply names of recognized search firms. From an initial list of about eight, council then called all references, eventually narrowing the list to four. After interviewing representatives of these firms, council eventually selected a Norcross, Georgia firm, Slavin, Nevins and Associates, Inc., to conduct the search.

The first step undertaken by this team was to create a profile of the sort of person the city was looking for. To do this, they met with individual council members, with department heads within the city staff, with members of the city's advisory boards and with members of city organizations. Following this process, Slavin, Nevins placed advertisements in national and professional publications, as well as contacting their own informational networks.

Many Candidates

Something close to 150 candidates applied, Weidenfeld said. The search team then culled this list to 20 and council narrowed it further. Following an interview process, the consultants came up with a list of six finalists—all of whose references were carefully checked, as well as responses from fellow employees and subordinates.

On Friday evening, May 31, council met in closed session to work out a list of questions to ask of all six candidates; and on Saturday morning they began an all-day series of in-depth interviews with each candidate in turn. This marathon was then followed by a reception, in which council had an opportunity to observe the candidates in a social situation. "We were very impressed with all the candidates," Weidenfeld said, "with their education, their skills and their ability."

Isaacs concurred: "In the final three we had the cream."

Council Harmony

White went on to comment on the "collaborative process itself." He described how the council had gone through the steps they felt would lead to a consensus every step of the way. "I would like to compliment my See CITY MANAGER, p. 2, c. 5

Possible Champion Chestnut In Schrom Too Sick to Save

by Virginia Beauchamp

In an initial survey before the clearing and grading for Schrom Hills Park, members of the county's natural resources staff discovered a Chinese chestnut tree, thought to be a possible county, if not state, champion right in the middle of the planned soccer field.

According to county, and now state law, any site being cleared for development must be surveyed for potential champion trees, defined as largest of their species in a particular jurisdictional area, based on a complicated point system involving height, diameter, and configuration.

Worth Saving?

Looking into the possibility of success in moving such a tree, city planning director Celia Wilson had placed the case of the Chinese chestnut tree on the city council agenda for June 10. Two alternatives were envisioned if the tree indeed proved a champion—moving it to try to save it, or completely changing the design plan for Schrom Hills Park.

In reporting to council at the meeting, however, Wilson said the question was moot. After inspection by John Markovitz, chief arborist for the Prince Georges Park and Planning Commission, the tree in question was not deemed worth saving. Because of its actual shape it is not a champion and because the tree was seriously diseased, what happened to it was no longer an issue. Indeed, Wilson predicted that it would be felled before the week was out.

Other Champions?

Nevertheless, the county survey discovered four other trees which should be preserved—two large "specimen" oak trees, though not champions, and a pine and a cedar that may fit the latter category. Wilson brought along a map of the planned park layout, on which she had affixed stickers indicating the locations of each of these trees. By moving the soccer field 30 feet to the west, and by creating a large island in a parking lot, all of these trees could be saved in the positions where they are growing, she said.

The trees are believed to be about 80 years old, Wilson said, and were probably planted by an early resident. The Chinese chestnut is not native to Maryland.

Rodney Roberts questioned the decision to destroy the chestnut, even if it is sick. He thought a 15 percent chance to save it if it were moved, worth the trouble.

Wilson disagreed. The city does not have the facility to move it, she argued; it is logistically impossible. "The conscientious and competent decision in tree saving" is not to invest time, energy and money in a futile effort to preserve it.

City horticulturist Bill Phelan agreed. He thought the 15 percent possibility "optimistic." It would be "wasted time, wasted money."

GHI Board Tackles Issues Raised At Its Annual Membership Meeting

by Leslie Robinson

The first meeting of the board of Greenbelt Homes Inc. (GHI) following the annual membership meeting in mid-May was a marathon affair lasting until after 1 a.m. During this meeting on May 30, officers were elected, the chairman of the woodlands committee was appointed, the summer meetings were scheduled, and an additional computer system was approved. Also some familiar refrains were heard — recycling and the inadequate sound system at the annual meeting.

Election of Officers

The election at the annual membership meeting in mid-May was a contest with seven persons vying for five seats on the board. But at this meeting the five newly elected board members, all of whom were re-elected, joined with the incumbents to elect unanimously, without opposition, the same officers of the previous board—Wayne Williams, president; Ray McCawley, vice president; Betty Detch, secretary and Chuck Hess, treasurer.

The Woodlands

As promised by McCawley at the annual membership meeting, the woodlands issue was on the evening's agenda. At the membership meeting a motion was tabled that would have granted an environmental easement to the Maryland Environmental Trust on the 82.5 acres of woodlands currently under a forest management plan with the State of Maryland. In its place a motion was made, amended, and carried by a majority vote to have the board look into the pros and cons of the tabled motion and make recommendations to the membership no later than the 1992 annual meeting. An amendment to the successful motion directed the board to appoint one board member as a chairperson of a committee to be composed of GHI members.

Alan Freas was appointed by unanimous vote to lead the woodlands committee. Freas is the author of a definitive two-page memo, distributed at the meeting, on the structure and purpose of the committee. Freas recommended in his memo a non-controversial name for the committee. He saw a need for the collection of information from the Maryland Environmental Trust, the American Forest Council, and the Maryland State Forester. Freas envisions some costs to be incurred by the committee. He stated in the memo that "This will not be your typical GHI committee." He sees the need for outside experts, a meeting room, cable coverage and a recording secretary.

After much discussion, President Williams asked General Manager Ron Colton to prepare an advertisement for the News Review seeking candidates for what will be known as the Ad Hoc GHI Woodlands Committee.

Computer System

Colton had a spirited discussion with Ed James of the Audit Committee, and others, in defense of the second reading of his proposal to purchase an Altos 386 Series 1,000 Computer System at a cost not to exceed $15,000. Colton said the present system is being strained beyond its capacity. The new system would integrate with the general ledger the accounts receivable, cash receipts and other book-keeping items. The proposed new system also would provide a back-up in case one of the other systems goes down. Computer words like hard disk, bytes, rams and floppy disc drive filled the air, but in the end the board approved Colton's recommendation to purchase the new computer system.

Annual Meeting

The motion passed at the annual membership meeting instructing the board to appoint a liaison to keep GHI informed of county greenways plans through the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission brought no formal action at this evening's meeting, but it was mentioned that ex-Audit Committee member Robert Rashkin was attending a Planning Committee meeting that evening.

The board listened to but took no action on a number of suggestions made by member Eunice Coxon to improve the annual meeting. She felt that a parliamentarian would be of assistance at the annual meeting. She stated that the sound system at the meeting was inadequate, and the meeting place lacked fans or air conditioning.

Summer Schedule

During June, July and August the board traditionally meets only once a month. The next meeting will be on June 20. The board selected July 18 and August 8 for the other meetings. In a related action the board selected June 27 for its annual training session. One of the topics selected for the session was a study of the bylaws.

Other

Deborah Henson, a member of a City-appointed committee on recycling, spoke on GHI recycling problems. The board unanimously approved the construction of a two-story addition at 11-A Laurel Hill Road on the gardenside.

Some residents of GHI apartments are blocking open the entrance doors with a brick, thereby defeating the purpose of the electronic lock system.

BOXWOOD NAMES SACRA PRESIDENT

On May 7 the Boxwood Civic Association Executive Board met and named Gretchen Sacra as the new association president, effective June 1. She joins other officers Jean Cook, Ron Olt and Maurice Love who were elected in November 1990. These officers will serve until association elections are held in November 1992. Sacra succeeds David Moran who had been Boxwood's president since 1985. She and her family reside at 226 Lastner Lane.

The Boxwood Civic Association represents the residents of Boxwood Village and conducts several annual activities. For more information, call Sacra at home at 982-0996.

colleagues," he said. "I was pleased to be a participant." Putens said: "The process went surprisingly smoothly. We learned a lot of extreme benefit to the city."

Council member Antoinette M. Bram said she did not remember one disagreement in the whole process. On every issue they had been unanimous. They were also very well coached by their consultant, she said.

Weidenfeld said he felt there had been potential for pitfalls—most particularly in choosing their consultant. In the end, the consultants were very impressed with the council members themselves as interviewers and with the set of questions they had raised.

"This was a very long-term, important, significant decision," he said.

Miss Greenbelt 1989 Wins Talent Contest

Former Miss Greenbelt, Alicia Derin, a sophomore attending the University of Florida in Gainesville, competed in the Miss American Coed Pageant—1991 in Tampa, Florida along with 80 other coeds. The pageant extended over the March 28 weekend and at the end the former Miss Greenbelt was selected first place winner for talent. She will compete in the pageant finals this November in Tampa.

Signing for the deaf is not only a language of importance, but a medium of artistic communication, as Derin demonstrated to the judges and audience when she signed to the song, Do You Know. Those who attended the Eleanor Roosevelt High School graduation last year saw for themselves why the judges were impressed when she interpreted the program in sign language for the deaf.

In her studies at Gainesville, Derin is pursuing a career in elementary education with an emphasis in mainstreamed deaf children.

Otterman recently returned from Iran, where he was with Physicians for Human Rights to investigate the status of refugees.

Otterman grew up in Israel and Philadelphia. In Israel where instructional TV programs were popular, he acted at age 11 in instructional TV and later, at age 16 in a series written for him, "Let's Learn English." At age 13 he starred in a film, "I Love You, Rosa," which was shown at the Cannes Festival in 1972 and was nominated for an Academy Award in 1973 for the best foreign film.

While he was an undergraduate at the University of Michigan he directed and acted in plays. He was graduated from the University of Michigan with a B.A. in theater arts.

After graduation he worked for NIH. He then entered the pre-med honors program at the University of Maryland, before going to Harvard. Majoring in pediatrics, he will serve a residency at Boston Children's Hospital.

Debra Marshall

Former Greenbelter, Debra Lynette Marshall, age 35, died of natural causes in South Semirole Community Hospital, Longwood, Florida, on June 5.

She is survived by her husband, Arthur Marshall and two sons, David Boswell and Jeremy Marshall, all of Chuluota, Florida; her parents, Charley and Patricia Kinzie of Greenbelt; three brothers, Michael Kinzie of Laurel, Mark Kinzie of Baltimore and James Kinzie, Pompano Beach, Florida, and grandmothers Lois Brower of Pierceton, Indiana and Lucile Kinzie of Sidney, Indiana.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear best friend, Debbie Marshall, to whom I consider almost as if she was my sister, or my own flesh and blood, but always as my best friend. She departed this life at age 35 on June 3 in Florida where she resided.

She left without saying goodbye to me, and now I sit and cry and wonder why she had to go? Maybe someday soon fate will tell me. I'm just thankful of the great times we had together, and for the wonderful memories she left with me. I will worship those memories of her for as long as I live.

My great and dear condolences to her mother, Mrs. Kinzie, and to Debbie's children Jeremy age 8, and David age 16. Also to her husband.

Maria Wyman and family
Rodrigo, Laura, and Janel

Around 4:30 a.m. on June 4, High's (Roosevelt Center) was robbed by two men, one of whom had a shotgun. After robbing the store, the men fled but were chased by an off-duty Metropolitan Police officer who happened to be outside. Nonetheless, the men got away. One is described as black, in his 20s, 5'10", 160 lbs., black hair, wearing a dark blue sweat suit and light blue gloves.

On June 2 a citizen reported being battered by someone during a verbal altercation in the parking lot of the Shell Food Mart (6000 block of Breezewood Drive). The batterer fled the area in a Chevy Beretta with MD tags XVW 306.

On May 31 a citizen reported seeing someone remove the registration plates from a vehicle in the parking lot in the 6300 block of Ivy Lane and leave in a red Chevy pickup truck with MD tags 802003 or 882003. The truck was driven by a second person.

An 18-year-old nonresident male and a 17-year-old nonresident were arrested and charged with rogue and vagabond after certain tools were found in their vehicle in the 5800 block of Cherrywood Terrace. The 18-year-old appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was held on $500 bond, and the juvenile was released to a relative pending action by Juvenile Services.

On June 3, in the 7900 block of Mandan Road, a 15-year-old resident took a vehicle without the owner's permission, struck a parked car, and left the scene of the accident. He was arrested and charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, leaving the scene of an accident, and driving without a license. He was released to his mother pending action by Juvenile Services.

On June 6 a citizen reported the theft of a dark brown 1989 Dodge B250 conversion van, MD tags 300676M, from the 9100 block of Springhill Lane.

Around 8 p.m. on May 27, a citizen reported seeing a suspicious car in the 6900 block of Hanover Pkwy. The police checked the car's tags in their computer and found that it was indeed stolen. Sighting it in the 7500 block of Hanover Pkwy., the police tried to pull it over, but it fled onto Greenbelt Rd., then onto Frankfort Dr. and finally stopped in Morrison Dr., where the 4 people inside the car got out and fled on foot. They were all apprehended and charged with auto theft. One of them is a 22-year-old nonresident male; he was released pending trial after appearing before a District Court Commissioner.
